Parenting Your Teenage Children
Community Education Program

Wednesday 28 May 2008

Would you like to gain a better understanding of your teenager?
Would you like to know how your teenager's mind actually works?

Come along and be an active participant in facilitated discussion on ways to improve interactions with teenagers. Go away better equipped with strategies for positive outcomes when communicating.

Presenter:

Peter Olerenshaw,
Counsellor FACES (Family and Adolescent Counselling Service).

Peter has been a counsellor with FACES for eight years. He began his counselling with Lifeline in the mid-nineties and spent a significant period at Woden Community Service with the Young Men's Support Network, Centacare and Relationships Australia. He worked with individuals, couples and groups on various topics of parenting including stepfamilies and children of separated families.

Peter has two adult daughters, a dearly beloved partner and a dog with divided loyalties.
